A message for managers

How you'll benefit from sending your receptionists to this seminar

Most receptionists spend their days reacting to everyone else's demands, the telephone, visitors, other employees and stress.

To handle it all, your receptionists need specific skills. They need to know how to manage their time, deal with all types of people, handle conflict with composure and project a first-rate image for your organization.

This seminar will give your receptionists those skills. They will gain insight into these crucial areas:

Telephone skills.

The way your organization handles every telephone call determines whether you gain business or lose it. At this seminar, your receptionists will discover how to make every telephone call more productive and positive.

Image.

Your receptionists are “ambassadors” for your organization. Are they presenting the professional, competent image your organization is proud of? They will after this seminar.

Customer service.

Your receptionists serve people not only from outside your company, but from inside, as well. At this seminar, they'll gain specific professional skills that will dramatically improve their level of service.

Just think: how much would your receptionists benefit by gaining these skills? And even more important, how much would your organization benefit?

Help all of your receptionists to develop a “no limit” attitude. Send them to this seminar, and you will see results immediately. We guarantee it.
